Search strategy for Media and Culture Studies Paper

My primary source, aesthetic topic, social and/or cultural topic, and working thesis statement have been approved by my Media and Culture Studies seminar teacher

Topic

Primary source(s) (film or photograph)	Pulp Fiction, directed by Quentin Tarantino.
Aesthetic topic(s)	Cinematography, film noir.
Social and/or cultural topic(s)
Working thesis statement	In the use of cinematography (camera angles and 180°) in the portrayal of characters, this paper argues that “Pulp fiction” by Quentin Tarantino breaks the traditional features of a film noir.

Planned Boolean searches

Do not use “all text” or similar as a search field. Explain your choice of keywords/subject terms, search field, and Boolean operator and the basic differences between the results that influenced the different choices you made.

JSTOR

Keyword OR Subject term 1	Search Field	Boolean	Keyword OR Subject term 2	Search Field
Pulp Fiction	Full text	And	Film noir	Title

xxxx, Hold A

Film noir	Title	And	Characters	Full text
Quentin Tarantino	Author	And	Pulp Fiction	Title

I saved the searches in MyJSTOR

Explanation

I wanted to include my primary source, “Pulp Fiction”, in my search as well as the things which I am researching in the movie. Through JSTOR, I have, unfortunately, not been able to find material which I found useful for my media-paper

Communication & Mass Media Complete

Keyword OR Subject term 1	Search Field	Boolean	Keyword OR Subject term 2	Search Field
Pulp Fiction	Full text	And	Film noir	Title
Film noir	Title	And	Characters	Full text
Quentin Tarantino	Author	And	Pulp Fiction	Title

I saved the searches in My EBSCOhost

Explanation

I wanted to include my primary source, “Pulp Fiction”, in my search as well as the things which I am researching in the movie. My search paid off and I found some articles which I can use for my media-paper.

Search task for Media and Culture Studies Paper

xxxx, Hold A

1. I located and saved at least one quality academic (peer-reviewed/scholarly) journal article that might be used as secondary source in at least four of the following databases:
2. MyJSTOR
3. My EbscoHost in Academic Search Elite
4. My EbscoHost in Communication & Mass Media Complete
5. My Archive in Periodicals Archive Online
6. Other database (specify) ProQuest
7. I located and saved at least one academic book from the State and University Library database.
8. All of the articles and the book are relevant for your 5-7-page academic paper for Media and Culture Studies.
9. All of the journals are academic/scholarly journals:

Scholarly secondary sources

Journal	Ulrich's classification
Literature Film Quarterly 27	Academic/scholarly
Literature Film Quarterly 23	Academic/scholarly

Explain the choice and use of two of the secondary sources

Choose two articles from the reference list below and explain in approximately 100 words per secondary source why you chose to use it. Include in your account a discussion of both the relevance and reliability of the source based on Section 5.4 in The Craft of Research (76-80).

Your discussion of the sources' reliability should draw on relevant criteria about the journal (use Ulrich's as well as the database you in which you located the article to explain the criteria) and the author.

Your explanation should state the relationship between one of the search terms from your thesis statement used above and your research strategy as well as the relationship between the same term from your thesis statement and your decision to use the secondary source.

Relevance of secondary source one

I chose the journal, "Film noir: Killer style", because it discusses the use of film noir in Pulp Fiction which is what I am arguing in my working thesis statement. I found it by using the key terms "pulp fiction" and "film noir". By using Ulrichs classification, I found that the journal is academic/scholarly; therefore, I know that it has been peer reviewed and, therefore, I consider it to be a reliable source.

Relevance of secondary source two

I chose the book, "Film Noir", because I, in my working thesis statement, argue that "Pulp fiction" breaks some of the traditional features of film noir. In order to prove this, I will have to define film noir and this book does just that. The book also discuss "Pulp fiction", and I found it by using the key terms "pulp fiction" and "film noir".
